

GME's NEW WEBSITE

at the usual address - www.mercatoelettrico.org - many new & exciting features

Rome, 22 December 2004 - GME's website has renewed itself, proving to be a reference tool for the energy sector.

Completely redesigned, www.mercatoelettrico.org features clean and simple graphics, enabling both industry professionals and non-professionals to access its contents easily and quickly.

The website is based on a modular and open architecture, which offers flexibility and expandability without altering its creative design and unique style. This choice responds GME's intent to provide visitors with comprehensive and updated information.

The website, available in both Italian and English, is organised into sections. Access to the sections is from the function bar in the top part of the homepage: GME, Electricity Market, Environmental Markets, Press and Media, Events and Library.

From the homepage, users may also access the results of the Electricity Market and of the Green Certificates Market and thus monitor market trends.

For additional information:

GME – Institutional Relations & Communication

Tel.no. +39-06-80124522/30/48

relazioni.istituzionali@mercatoelettrico.org